Best Practices

2019-2020

BEST PRACTICE – 1

1. Title of the practice: Cultivating the Joy of Giving among students

2. Objective of the practice

To make the students realize that happiness begins from doing something for others and not for ourselves.

3. The Context

To sensitize the students about the needs of cultivating joy by visiting orphanages, old age homes and practicing giving.

4. The Practice

- Conducting Sales day department wise and motivating the students to contribute voluntarily to raise funds.
- Encouraging the students to generously donate the collection to nearby orphanages in order to increase their sense of happiness.
- Visiting old age homes, orphanages and homes for the physically challenged and mentally retarded children once in a year and spending time with them.
- Distributing clothes, snacks and gifts to the family of HIV patients living in the nearby village every year during Christmas season.
- Constructing houses for the unhoused through NSS, YRC and Student's Council

5. Evidence of success

More than 300 students have been involved in these activities every year.

BEST PRACTICE – II

1. Title of the practice: Organizing International Conferences and National Seminars

2. Objective of the practice

- To gain knowledge on important topics from higher education as a field of study.
- To become acquainted with eminent persons who are experts in teaching and research in specific areas.
- Transforming our institution into a center of academic and research excellence.
- To have an awareness of current trends in the subject.
- To develop presentation skills and to enhance leadership qualities in students.

3. The Context

Students are nowadays unaware of higher education and the opportunities for research. Therefore, it is realized that the students must be given an awareness and so arranging such seminars and conferences are made mandatory for them.

4. The Practice

- Each department organizes conferences/seminars once or twice in a year. In addition, the Research Forum of our institution conducts International Seminar every year. Participants are both from our own and from other institutions.
- Resource Persons are invited from reputed institutions within and outside the country.
- Paper presentation is encouraged and the presented papers are published in Proceedings and UGC care listed journals.
- Students are also trained to organize such programmes.

5. Evidence of success

Much improvement is observed now in the number of teachers and students involved in research, collaborative works etc.
